

ABSTRACT

A method of providing email messages for a printing device includes attaching a memory module storing the email messages to a printing device consumable.